11. The tour of the two mountains

The fortress of Monte Cerignone was built in the 12th century by Buonconte di Montefeltro. Our tour starts from F.lli Cervi square just underneath the fortress and first leads down towards the village to then rise up again to the sanctuary of B. Domenico. After ascending on a forest path, you reach the mountainside of Villagrande. From here you travel on the road to Magnone valley where you commence a technically very demanding descent to the Conca river. A little further on is a ford underneath a bridge. A ramp takes you to Ca' Secco and further to the mountain of S.Lorenzo. A few more ups and downs and you arrive at the path called "Strada Vicinale della Serra" which runs along the crest of the mountain. At the peak, the district road joins the Faggiola street. You follow first a path, then the district road for a little while and then descend on a dirt road that takes you back to Monte Cerignone.
